

cousera-final project

Alessandro Pini

July 2019

1 Introduction

The real estate markets, like those in the USA, present an interesting opportunity for data scientists to analyze and predict where property prices are moving towards. Prediction of property prices is becoming increasingly important and beneficial. Property prices are a good indicator of both the overall market condition and the economic health of a country.

A good indicator

2 Data set

I use the freely available data set on Kaggle¹. The data set contains the following information:

¹You can find the data set at this website <https://www.kaggle.com/shree1992/housedata>